

Student Support Services

Hybrid Model

- Related Services- Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, Speech Therapy, Counseling- Providers will contact parents of students on his/her caseload to make a plan for individual students. Students will be met with as per his/her scheduled therapy times either in person or remotely.
- RTI services- RTI teachers will provide additional support mostly in a push-in model. For smaller classes, classroom teachers will support the RTI needs of students. Some services may be provided remotely.
- Guidance Counseling- Counselors- will be available to assist with questions from parents concerning work and special needs. They will meet with individual students to support social and emotional needs as identified through building level support teams. They will continue to assist with surveying students and in-putting course requests when the time comes.
- English as a New Language- Teachers will modify classroom materials for ENL students in coordination with general education colleagues in inclusive settings. They will provide additional small group/individual support to students to address areas of need and language acquisition. Some services may be provided remotely.
- Teaching Assistants will be available to assist their classroom teachers by helping to gather resources or by contacting students, under the guidance of their classroom teachers. Teaching assistants will work with students in small groups at the direction of the teachers.

Remote Model

- Related Services- Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, Speech Therapy, Counseling- Providers will contact parents of students on his/her caseload to make a plan for individual students. Students will be met with as per his/her scheduled therapy times. Therapy sessions will be used as telehealth service, check-in, video instruction, follow-up, as appropriate to each child.
- RTI services- RTI services- RTI teachers will provide additional support in small groups remotely. For smaller classes, classroom teachers will support the RTI needs of students.
- Guidance Counseling-Counselors- will be available remotely to assist with questions from parents concerning work and special needs. They will meet with individual students to support social and emotional needs as identified through building level support teams. They will continue to assist with surveying students and in-putting course requests when the time comes.
- English as a New Language- Teachers will modify classroom materials for ENL students in coordination with general education colleagues in inclusive settings. They will provide additional small group/individual support remotely to students to address areas of need and language acquisition.
- Teaching Assistants will be available to assist their classroom teachers by helping to gather resources or by contacting students, under the guidance of their classroom teachers. Teaching assistants will work with students in small groups at the direction of the teachers remotely.