

Meghan Sedlak did a terrific work on her Constitution Research Project. She identified the framers (Founding Fathers,) the 3 Branches of the Federal Government (Congress, Courts and President,) and the need for and addition of the Bill of Rights and subsequent amendments. I thought her last paragraph ended with an interesting thought: "Adding an amendment is hard – it takes a lot of agreement. Maybe you have a good idea for a change to the Constitution."

Meghan included a final page with a picture of Benjamin Franklin, advising on how to, "Be Successful:"

1. Take Action
2. Don't procrastinate
3. Be Prepared
4. Embrace change
5. Move and get things done

Way to go Meg and all of the many students who completed Constitution Projects!
