HOW TO BE AN ALL-STAR PARENT

By Rob Gilbert, Ph.D.

How do you define an all-star parent? Very simple, how or she is a parent who is a good sport and a great fan to become an all-star parent of an athlete, there are times when you must stop parenting. When your son and daughter change into uniform and becomes an athlete, you also have to change from a parent to a fan. Your job on the sidelines or in the stands is not to be a parent, but to be your child's greatest fan.

There's not trick here. You already know how to do this. Remember how you behaved when your baby was learning to walk? You were a fan and a supporter, weren't you? You applauded the "downs" as well as the "ups".

You never said things like, "What's taking you so long?" "How come the kid down the street is walking better than you?" "Why do you keep making the same mistakes over and over again?" You were the world's most appreciative audience.

Why should it be any different now that your child is an athlete? Your job is not to be the coach (unless you are the coach) or the expert. You are there so that you share the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat – together.

In fact, your child needs your support more in defeat than in victory. Did you ever notice that strangers fell free to come out of the stands and congratulate the winners? But defeat, sometimes the athlete's own teammates and coaches ignore her/him. As a parent you, have to be there to cushion setbacks with a positive "We'll get 'em next time!"

Three "B's" For All-star Parenting

1. Be There
2. Be Positive
3. Be Seated

Be There - You can never hope to be an all-star parent unless you show up at games. Regardless of the level of your child or the success of the team – go to the games. BE SUPPORTIVE. Don't be a fickle, fair-weather fan.

Be Positive – On the sidelines, if you can't say something positive, don't say anything at all. Nothing good comes from negative statements and nothing negative comes from positive ones. If you can't be positive, at least be silent.

Be Seated – Even though it's good to be positive, it's good not to overdo it. Don't stick out. Be an admirer – not a cheerleader. Players should not confuse your voice with the public address system. Once you start to become a positive, acknowledging fan, an interesting thing may happen. Your child will want you at games. When this happens, you will know that you are considered to be an important member of your child's personal all-star support team.

Parent/Guardian Code of Conduct and Expectations:

The purpose of the Parent Code is to develop parental support and positive role models in our athletic programs. In the tradition of excellence, one purpose of our athletic program at John F. Kennedy Middle School is to promote the physical, mental, moral, social and emotional wellbeing of each student. Parents/Guardians are an integral part of this process.

Expectations:

As a KMS parent/guardian of a student athlete, I agree to:

- Be a positive role model for my child, the school and the community.
- Display a positive attitude and appropriate behavior.
- Show respect for all participants, officials, and coaches.
- Encourage my child to attend school regularly and excel academically.
- Assist in providing for student safety and welfare at all times.
- Inform my child of the dangers of using and discourage the use of any illegal drugs, alcohol or tobacco.

Parent/Coach Relationship

We are very pleased that your son/daughter has chosen to participate in the KMS athletic program. We will do all we can to provide a positive experience for him/her. Possibly the most important ingredient to achieve this outcome is to insure that lines of communication are developed to allow for open and easy resolution of questions before they become conflicts. As a parent, you have a right to know what expectations are placed on your daughter/son. This pamphlet is intended to spell out all levels of communication so that parents, coaches, and athletes are aware of the steps that they have available to resolve anything they think is an issue, or might become an issue.

Communication you should expect from your child's coach:

1. Philosophy of the coach.
2. Expectations the coach has for your child.
3. Locations and times of all practices and games.
4. Team requirements, i.e., fees, special equipment, off-season conditioning, etc.
5. Procedure to follow should your child become injured during participation.
6. Participants conduct code and discipline that result in the denial of your child's participation.
7. Insurance information.
8. Disposition of lost/outstanding equipment at the end of the season.

Issues not appropriate to discuss with coaches:

1. Playing time.
2. Team strategy.
3. Play calling.
4. Matters concerning other student athletes.

These are situations that may require a conference between the coach and the parent. These are to be encouraged. It is important that both parties involved have a clear understanding of the other person's position. When these conferences are necessary, the following procedure should be followed to help promote a resolution to the issue of concern.

If you have a concern to discuss with a coach, please follow the procedure below:

1. Call to set up an appointment.
2. John F. Kennedy Middle School number in 505-721-1300.
3. If the coach cannot be reached after reasonable times, call Assistant Principal at 505-721-1300 she will arrange the appointment for you.
4. Please DO NOT attempt to confront a coach before or after a contest, or at practice. These can be emotional times for both the parent and the coach. Meetings of this nature do not promote resolutions and even exacerbate the issue.

The next step:

What can a parent do if the meeting with the coach did not provide a satisfactory resolution?

1. Call and set up an appointment with the assistance principal to discuss the situation.
2. At this meeting the appropriate next step can be determined.

Since research indicates a student involved in extra-curricular activities has a greater chance for success during adulthood, these programs have been established and encouraged. Many of the character traits required to be a successful participant in athletics are exactly those that will promote a successful life after high school. We hope the information provided within this pamphlet will help to make the KMS athletic program less stressful and more enjoyable for both you and your child.

Gallup McKinley County School's follow the chain of commence listed below. We ask that you observe this as a means of communication effectively to resolve your concerns.

- Head Coach
- KMS Assistant Principal-505-721-1300

SPORTSMANSHIP

- PLAYER'S ROLE

The role of the players in sportsmanship is second in importance only to that of the coach. Players are admired and respected by students of all levels as well as adult spectators. They have significant influence over the actions and behavior of spectators of all ages.

Required Responsibilities:

1. Accept and understand the seriousness of their responsibility and privilege of representing the school and community.
2. Learn the rules thoroughly and discuss them with parents, fans, fellow students, and elementary students. This will assist everyone in the achievement of a better understanding and appreciation of the game.
3. Cooperate with coaches and always exercise good sportsmanship by living by the rules and roles stated.
4. Only the captain may communicate with the officials of an athletic event or activity on the clarification of rules. It is his/her responsibility to communicate what was said back to his/her teammates and/or coach.

5. Always respect the official's judgment and interpretation of the rules. Never argue or make non-verbal gestures, which indicate disagreement. This type of immature activity may incite undesirable behavior in the stands and by teammates.
6. Congratulate opponents in a sincere manner following either victory or defeat. This is a true measure of character.
7. Treat opponents with the respect that accorded a guest of friend.
8. Shake hands with opponents prior to the contest and with them luck.
