About I'm Possible Kids

The I'm Possible Kids Program is going to revolutionize the way young kids prepare for the game of basketball. We don't use a single basket, and we will not take a single shot....This age doesn't need work at a basket. There's time for that later!

I'm Possible Kids focuses on their ball handling, their athleticism, their footwork, and the exact characteristics that will help them become better basketball players. Too often, young kids are taught basic skills so they can succeed in local youth leagues at THAT age.

We will not waste time teaching young kids how to do the most basic things, as that often cements in habits that will all need to be unlearned as they get older...

I'm Possible Kids focuses on giving young players skills and traits that will be useful at every level.

We will not offer a babysitting experience, which leaves very little room for the group as a whole to improve...

We've learned that our youth are willing to work. And because we know how to use innovation and fun challenges to motivate kids, the I'm Possible Kids program engages and shows them how fun training can really be while introducing them to concepts and skills they will need to make their dreams come true.

Bottom line, our kids have big dreams. It's time we start training them at the level of those dreams and give them a true chance of enjoying this great game.

Welcome to I'm Possible Kids. The movement has begun!
