IB Learner Profile

Inquirers
  Open-Minded

Caring

Knowledgeable

Risk-Takers

Communicators

Balanced

Principled
Principled

We act with integrity and honesty, with a strong sense of fairness and justice, and with respect for the dignity and rights of people everywhere. We take responsibility for our actions and their consequences.
Wanneek Horn Miller: Former Olympic athlete, sports ambassador and a member of the Canadian native Mohawk tribe.

When Wanneek Horn Miller was 14 she was stabbed close to her heart by a Canadian soldier’s baton. At the time she and her little sister were trying to leave a mohawk indian protest which became known as The Oka crisis, Quebec, Canada, 11 July-26 September 1990. It was sparked by the town of Oka wanting to expand a golf course onto native land.

This event changed the way many non-native Canadians perceived the land and personal rights of indigenous (native) people. What follows is an interview with Waneek Horn Miller.

Listen carefully to her inspiring story........
Interview with Former Canadian Olympic Athlete
Waneek Horn Miller
Essential Question

How have Waneek Horn Miller’s life experiences shaped how she understands justice, fairness and rights for all people?
Discussion Questions:

What does fairness and justice mean?

Think of a time when you acted honestly-discuss your example.

How can we respect the dignity and rights of people everywhere? (consider Ms. Horn-Miller’s story) Discuss ideas in your group.

Why is it important to take responsibility for your actions and their consequences?