

Join Us! The Virtual Pillowcase Project

Learn.Practice.Share.

The virtual Pillowcase Project is our signature youth disaster preparedness program designed for youth in grades 3–5 through a 40-minute interactive presentation. The program offers free education in personal and family preparedness for region-specific hazards. All attendees will receive instructions on how to design a pillowcase kit, starting with a regular pillowcase where students can use their creativity while home; how to build a personal preparedness kit; and a digital workbook filled with a variety of preparedness and safety resources.

After the presentation, children have 10 minutes to complete a 5-question survey to capture how students understand the information. The American Red Cross has presented this FREE educational program to over 1,000,000 children nationwide.

We hope you will join us online to build on what we have already learned over these past few unprecedented weeks.

Please note, the capacity of each session is limited to 500 participants and we expect the spots to go quick; therefore, please remember to register as soon as you can and add the event to your calendar.

Please register for any of the following sessions:
