Tolerancia

Tolerance

Ser tolerante es aceptar las diferencias. No esperamos que otras personas piensen, hablen, actúen y se vean como nosotros. Ser tolerante es estar libre de prejuicios, es saber que cada persona tiene sus propios sentimientos, necesidades, esperanzas y sueños. Ser tolerante también significa aceptar con flexibilidad y paciencia las cosas que no son de nuestro agrado. Practicar la tolerancia es mostrar respeto y aprecio por las diferencias.

Soy tolerante.

No pongo atención a los defectos de la gente.

Aprecio las diferencias.

Acepto con gracia las cosas que no puedo cambiar.

To be tolerant is to accept people and circumstances as they are, especially when they are different from what we want or expect. It also means to be free of prejudice. With tolerance we know that all people have feelings, needs, hopes and dreams, which are different than ours and that they will act, look, think, and speak differently than us. Practicing tolerance is showing respect and appreciation for everyone and everything. We don't judge or tease someone who is different. We make them feel at home. We show forgiveness when someone makes a mistake. When we are tolerant, we have the patience and flexibility to accept the things we cannot change with good grace.

Maya Angelou

Maya Angelou, a best-selling author and poet who had also worked in theatre, film and television, rose above a troubled childhood to pave the way for black women in these fields.

Overcoming childhood insecurities about her race, Maya Angelou promotes all individuals' rights and tolerance among them. "If you find it in your heart to care for somebody else, you will have succeeded," she notes. Angelou encourages people of every race to care for, respect, and be charitable to one another and love and respect themselves.

Código de vestimenta Broches, listones y peinetas

Queremos compartir con padres de familia y con estudiantes la regla, el cual se puede encontrar en el código de vestimenta estudiantil, acerca de accesorios para el cabello:

Accesorios tal y como broches y listones tienen que ser de los colores de la escuela y de estilo y tamaño conservador.

Empezaremos con la ejecución de este aspecto del código de vestimenta esta semana. Si estudiantes continúan llevando accesorios inapropiados los tendrán que quitar y recibirán una noticia.

Día de llevar ropa hawaiana jueves, 15 de agosto

Cada mes estudiantes pueden ganar participación, con su buen comportamiento y atención a su trabajo escolar, en los Días de Vestimenta Especial. Durante estos días los estudiantes pueden experimentar con su creatividad en la ropa que llevan pero tienen que estar de acuerdo a lo que es apropiado y modesto, tanto su vestimenta como el comportamiento. Estudiantes quienes merecen participación recibirán una noticia el día antes.

Dress Code Hair Accessories

We would like to share with parents and students the expectation, found in the Student Dress Code, for hair accessories:

Hair accessories such as headbands and barrettes should be black, white, brown, burgundy or hunter green, and conservative in size and style.

We will begin enforcing this aspect of the dress code this week. Students who do not conform will be asked to remove hair accessories that are not one of the acceptable colors or conservative in size or style and they will receive a dress code notice.

Hawaiian Day Thursday, August 15th

Every month students who have earned participation with their behavior and attention to school work may participate in a Special Dress Day. These days are meant to infuse joy and creativity into the regular school day and students are expected to adhere to the rules of appropriate dress and behavior. Students who earn the dress day will receive a Special Dress Day Notice this Wednesday.
