

Grade 5 December Goals

Reading

Students will continue to quote accurately when explaining what the text says and when drawing inferences, identify the main ideas of texts through their supporting details, and determine the meanings of words and phrases; including words/phrases belonging to specific domains.

Writing

Students will continue to draft their fictional narratives. They will add sophistication to their plots by deepening the development of its events and further intensifying the conflict, resolution, and theme of the narrative.

Math

Students will learn how to multiply and divide with decimals by finding patterns in products/quotients, estimating decimals, and solving multi-step decimal related word problems.

Science

Students will continue to analyze rock and mineral formation and change through the different Earth processes that exist by close reading nonfiction texts and participating in laboratory investigations on this domain.

Social Studies

Students will determine how the issues of power, wealth, and morality influence exploration and colonization of the Western Hemisphere.