Mi Diario: De Lunes a Viernes
Lunes	Después de unas vacaciones tan buenas...me tuve que levantar tempranísimo a caminar mi perro Mykah.
Martes	Notas, y mas notas tengo que estar segura que tengo todas mis notas al día para la reunión de padres y maestros este jueves.
Miercoles	Traté de llegar temprano a la escuela pero habia mucho tráfico. Me faltaba poner unos tarjetas descriptivas de las tareas de mis estudiantes en uno de Boletineros de pared exhibiendo sus trabajos en la clase de español.
Jueves	Hoy es la reunión de padres. Compré unos ricos chocolates y unas ricas Galletas "gourmet" para cada familia que nos visite. Espero vengan todos los padres de mi salón hogar.
Viernes	Volvemos a un día normal. Hoy los estudiantes comparten como les ha ido esta semana.

Everything to Know About Ozuna, Latin Music's Answer to Drake

The chart-topping singer-rapper wants you to "Baila, baila, baila."

- At the 2019 MTV Video Music Awards, Puerto Rican-Dominican singer-songwriter Ozuna will perform, joining other artists like Bad Bunny and J Balvin.
- But who is Ozuna? If you aren't familiar with the rising star, here's everything you need to know about the singer behind hits like "Taki Taki," "Te Soñé de Nuevo," "El Farsante," and more.

1) Earlier this year, Puerto Rican artist Ozuna was named one of Time 100's Most Influential people in the world. But fans of the singer know his influence goes back long before he was in the pages of Time. Since the singer first hit the music scene in 2016, he's been cranking out hits and more hits, the kind that manage to somehow both keep the party going and also inspire you to grab your beloved on the dance floor. (They've earned him comparisons to Drake, who has a similar style of both rapping and singing.) From singles like "El Farsante," "Tu Foto," and "Dile Que Tu Me Quieres" to "Taki Taki," "Baila, Baila, Baila," and his most recent collaboration with Rosalía, "Yo x Ti, Tu x Mi," Ozuna has been dominating the Latin music charts—and isn't stopping any time soon.

2) Ozuna's appearance at the VMAs—and all over the music charts—is signaling Latin music's current dominance in pop-culture and music. But it's also just further confirmation that his star is on the rise, thanks to the unique way he manages to blend genres from reggaeton and bachata to R&B and Latin trap. Whether you can rattle off the lyric to every one of his songs or you're just discovering the charming singer and family man, here's everything you need to know about Ozuna.

Ok, first things first: How did Ozuna become famous—how old is he, and where is he from?

3) 27-year-old Jan Carlos Ozuna Rosado was born in San Juan, Puerto Rico in 1992. According to The New York Times, while his mother is Puerto Rican, Ozuna's dancer father was Dominican—but was tragically shot and killed when Ozuna was only three years old. He was mostly raised by his paternal grandfather and grew up struggling—but when he was a teenager, he began to dabble in music, eventually moving to New York to explore a music career. He moved back to Puerto Rico to focus on music full time—using his father's last name as his stage name—and by 2015, he was becoming a local star, performing hundreds of shows across the island.

What Ozuna songs should I add to my playlists ASAP?

4) At one point in 2017, Ozuna was on the Billboard Latin charts eight times, according to the Times, for songs that were either his alone or that he was featured on. He's also a gifted songwriter, telling the Times that he can write songs "in five minutes."

5) But in addition to his catchy lyrics, it's Ozuna's lullaby-smooth voice and danceable mixes of reggaeton, bachata, R&B, and Latin trap that make his music enjoyable by all. In 2017, he released his debut album, Odisea, and to date his most well-known songs include "El Farsante" featuring Romeo Santos, "Escapate Conmigo" featuring Wisin y Yandel, and "La Modelo" featuring Cardi B. Most recently, fans have "dance, dance, danced" to his single "Baila, Baila, Baila"; he's featured on "Taki Taki"—nominated for a VMA—and is one of the many artists featured on the chart-rising track "China" by Anuel AA. And that track with Rosalía, "Yo x Ti, Tu x Mi," is quickly rising up the Latin Billboard chart.

6) To mark his entry onto this year's Time 100 list, reggaeton veteran Daddy Yankee penned a sweet tribute to the singer's musical talents.

7) "I'm proud of what he has become," Daddy Yankee wrote. "Imagine a shoeshine boy all grown up. That is Ozuna. He shows kids that anything is possible—that you can become a global star if you work hard enough."

So, um, asking for a friend: Is Ozuna married?

8) Sorry, y'all, but yes, Ozuna is indeed taken. While there's not much about her out there on the internet, we can confirm that he's been married for many years to a woman named Taina Marie Meléndez—and happily so. A video on the website CiberCuba shows a sweet throwback Facebook message that Ozuna wrote to his beloved back in 2017. "When I met you, I only had 40 dollars in my pocket, I had no car—I only had a heart to give you," the posts translates. "Thank you for being the person who dries my tears and removes my sadness!"

Does that mean he has kids and a family?

9)Yup! Ozuna and Taina love showing off their fam. His son, 3-year-old Juan Andres Ozuna Melendez, is the youngest—the little brother to the adorable Sofia Ozuna Melendez, who is now 6. And despite the many female fans constantly sharing their adoration for the singer, Ozuna often shares sweet snaps of his brood.

Harriet Tubman

En 1820, nació una pequeña niña en Maryland. Su nombre era Araminta pero todos la llamaban, Minty. Minty y su familia eran esclavos, no tenían derechos ni libertad y Minty pensaba que esto no era justo.

Minty y su familia vivían y trabajaban en una plantación; una granja grande. Tenían que trabajar muy duro. Aunque Minty solo tenía 7 años, tenía que cocinar, limpiar, hacer ropa, recolectar algodón y atrapar animales. No tenía permitido ir a la escuela. Cuando cometía un error la castigaban con severidad.

Cuando Minty se caso, cambio su nombre a Harriet. Harriet también era el nombre de su madre. Un día vio a uno de los otros esclavos tratando de escapar. El hombre fue atrapado, pero esto le dio la idea de que algún día podría escapar también.

Harriet escucho a las personas hablar sobre el Ferrocarril Subterráneo. Este no era un verdadero ferrocarril con trenes y rieles sino el nombre de un grupo de personas que trabajan en equipo para ayudar a que los esclavos llegaran a estados donde serían libres.

El marido de Harriet, John Tubman, no quería que ella escapara. Ella debía irse en secreto. Se quedo con personas del Ferrocarril Subterráneo. Finalmente, llego a Pensilvania y logro libertad!

Harriet estaba feliz de ser libre y quería ayudar a otras personas a ser libres también. Harriet volvió para buscar a su familia. Luego regreso 18 veces mas para ayudar a otras personas a escapar de la esclavitud. Durante el resto de su vida Harriet Tubman siguió ayudando a las personas. Creó escuelas para quienes habían sido esclavos y los ayudo a encontrar casas, comida y trabajo. Harriet Tubman fue una mujer valiente y una verdadera heroína de Estados Unidos.

Nombre: _____

La hora / The time

¿Qué hora es? What time is it?

Son las... (any number).

Ejemplo: Son las cuatro. It is four o'clock

In the morning, we say:

Son las _____ de la mañana.

In the afternoon we say:

Son las _____ de la tarde.

At night we say:

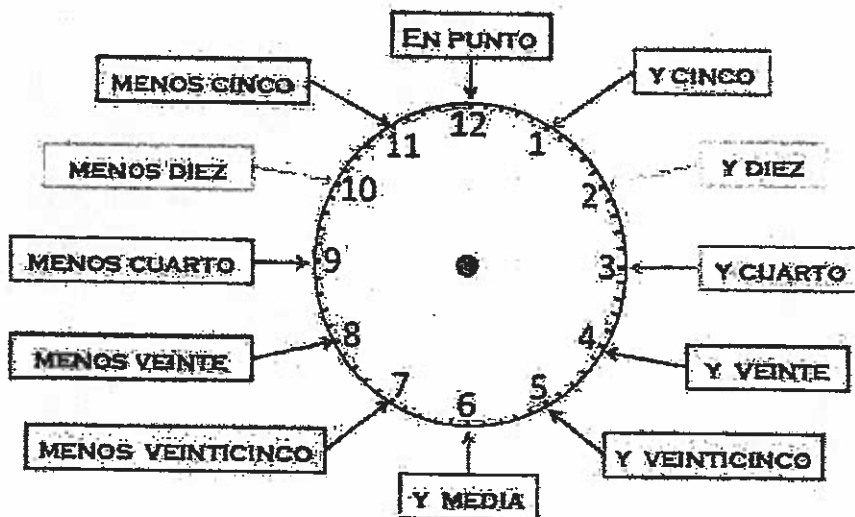

Son las _____ de la noche.

Exception: When it is one o'clock, we say Es la una. This is done to keep 'one' as singular. For any other number we say: Son las...

la medianoche = midnight ejemplo: Es la medianoche.

el mediodía = noon
ejemplo: Es el mediodía.

Use the clock below as a guide on how to give time increments.

en punto = on the dot
cuarto = quarter media = half

If you want to say it's 5 o'clock, you would say: Son las cinco en punto.

To tell time from the hour to the half hour, you need to add minutes to the hour, using the word y, which means and.

For example, if you want to say it's 7:20, you'd say: Son las siete y veinte.

To tell time from the half hour to the hour, you need to subtract minutes from the next hour, using the word menos, which means minus.

For example, to say it's 10:45, you'd say: Son las once menos cuarto.

Notice how you start with 11 and subtract 15 minutes to make 10:45.

Nombre: _____
