

First and Last Name: _____

Christopher Columbus: Hero or Villain?
U.S. History 7: DBQ

Introduction

Historical Question: Should we consider Columbus a hero or villain?

- Write an essay supporting your position by using three documents to support your argument.
- REMEMBER HOW TO WRITE CLAIMS AND USE EVIDENCE TO SUPPORT YOUR ARGUMENT & REASONING
- Response must be 1-2 pages in length, double-spaced. Font size should 12 and be Times New Roman.
- Share essay via google drive (google documents) no later than August 15th, 2018. 10 points will be automatically deducted for lateness
  - Email Address– eirias@ps171.org
  - Give Ms. Irias access to edit paper

Before you write your essay, attached are the documents that you will use as evidence.

For each source, chunk the text – this will help you get an understanding of what is being presented (Space has been provided along the margins). Then, answer all the questions given. The answers to each question will help you organize your argument.

This Assignment is equivalent to TWO classwork grades for the FIRST marking period.

Document 3

Many Americans do not consider Christopher Columbus to be an American hero, and oppose the celebration of Columbus Day as a national holiday. The following is an excerpt of an online petition asking Congress to change the name of the holiday to "First Americans Day."

The "Columbus Day" holiday is the only national holiday that is overtly insulting to millions of Americans. It is now universally understood that Christopher Columbus did not "discover" the American continent. That concept is a "Euro-centric" one that is deeply insulting to American Indians and many native-born Americans of all cultures. It is also historically incorrect. American Indian people have been on this continent at least 10,000 years, and scientists have proven that numerous other explorers had arrived on this continent from other parts of the world long before Columbus. It is also now known that many of the things we once believed about Christopher Columbus were myths, and that much of what we did not know about him would seriously tarnish his image, to say the least. This petition, however, is not meant to be an attack on Christopher Columbus, but rather an appeal for a holiday that is not insulting to any American. American national holidays should be days that bring a sense of pride and togetherness for ALL Americans, and stem from an "American perspective." "Columbus Day" fails that test on all counts.

-from an online "Petition to Abolish Columbus Day" (1995)

1. Why did petitioners oppose the celebration of Columbus Day?

Document 4

Michael Kammen earned a Ph.D. in history from Harvard University and is currently a professor of American cultural history at Cornell University.

Societies in fact reconstruct their pasts rather than faithfully record them...and do so with the needs of contemporary culture clearly in mind.

--Michael Kammen, Mystic Chords of Memory (1993)

1. In your own words, explain what Michael Kammen means in the above excerpt.

Document 5

Howard Zinn is a professor of history at Boston University. He received a Ph.D. in history from Columbia University and is the author of more than 20 books. In the excerpt below, Zinn cites the writing of Bartolomé de las Casas, a Catholic priest who moved from Spain to the New World in 1508. De las Casas witnessed and opposed the harsh treatment of the natives by Spanish settlers.

When he arrived on Hispaniola in 1508, Las Casas says, "there were 60,000 people living on this island, including the Indians; so that from 1494 to 1508, over three million people had perished from war, slavery, and the mines. Who in future generations will believe this? I myself writing it as a knowledgeable eyewitness can hardly believe it...."

Thus began the history, five hundred years ago, of the European invasion of the Indian settlements in the Americas. That beginning, when you read Las Casas--even if his figures are exaggerations (were there 3 million Indians to begin with, as he says, or less than a million, as some historians have calculated, or 8 million as others now believe?)--is conquest, slavery, death. When we read the history books given to children in the United States, it all starts with heroic adventure--there is no bloodshed--and Columbus Day is a celebration.

--Howard Zinn, A People's History of the United States
(1980)

1. According to Bartolomé de las Casas, the native population in the New World fell from approximately 3 million in 1492 to 60,000 in 1508. What happened to the natives?

Document 6

Dr. Warren H. Carroll is a leading Catholic historian and author, and the founder of Christendom College. He received his Ph.D. in history from Columbia University. The following excerpt is from an article he wrote for The Catholic Social Science Review.

Let us begin, therefore, by defining the word “discovery” in the context of history. A discovery is made when an individual or a nation finds something or someone or some people or some places of special importance, not previously known to them. When any previously unknown people is first found by another people, that people may be said to have been discovered. People as well as places can be discovered. The fact that people live in places unknown to another people does not mean that they, and the places where they live, cannot be discovered. No people from any other part of the world ever discovered Europe; but Europeans discovered all other parts of the world.

In all of history, only the Europeans and the Polynesians of the south Pacific have been true discoverers, sailing for the explicit purpose of finding new lands, trading with their people, and colonizing them. And of all discoverers, Christopher Columbus was the greatest, because he accomplished the most against the highest odds. Before Columbus’ time all European voyages had followed coastlines, or crossed open seas to lands previously known or at least sighted by storm-driven ships. Only Columbus set off directly across a broad, unknown sea with no specific knowledge of how far it extended or what lay on the other side.

--Warren Carroll, Honoring Christopher Columbus
(1992)

1. Why does Warren Carroll consider Columbus to be the greatest explorer of all time?

2. Why does Carroll disagree with critics who claim Columbus did not "discover" the New World?

Essay Planning Page:

Introduction:

Body Paragraphs:

Conclusion:

Remember to upload your essay via google drive and share your document with Ms. Irias – eirias@ps171.org

Make sure your essay has your first and last name.