March 20, 2020

Dear Parents and AP Students,

I hope everyone is in good spirits and adjusting to these new circumstances. I stated in my last communication that we are routinely monitoring College Board updates in an effort to provide our students with the latest direction with regard to AP Examinations. As of this morning, the College Board has provided some additional flexibility and made significant changes to all of the May 2020 exams. Most notably they have altered the amount of content to be assessed, the length of the test and the location of all tests.

I am in the process of reviewing the recommendations from College Board with Dr. Kotes and Dr. Bronstein as well as with all our AP teachers. We will then craft a series of guidelines that will be communicated out to all students and parents to ensure everyone understands the new options that will exist for the administration of the 2019-2020 AP Exams. My initial read of what the College Board has outlined as the truncated units of study to be tested will enable our teachers to prepare our students well for the rescheduled exams. Please look for a follow-up letter by Tuesday of next week. Stay well.

Dedicated to excellence,

Keith Schenker
