The High School of Art & Design is pleased to announce its participation in Photoville, which features work from over 600 photographers in Brooklyn Bridge Park.

The exhibition will run September 13-23. Directions to Photoville can be found HERE.

This exhibit explores work by students from The High School of Art & Design and The High School of Fashion Industries, as well as the pedagogy of the two teachers who work with the students. Teaching creativity is explored by breaking down the barriers to self-expression with our students. The students' work exhibited here centers around telling a story (HSFI) and selling an idea (Art & Design). Students who were juniors and seniors during the 2017-2018 schoolyear will be present to show their work and discuss their relationships with their teachers and fellow students.

From Photoville.com: New York City's FREE premier photo destination, produced by United Photo Industries, is a modular venue built from repurposed shipping containers.

Photoville's seventh edition will take place on September 13 – 23, 2018 in Brooklyn Bridge Plaza and feature more than 75 indoor and outdoor exhibitions, as well as 30+ panels, workshops, night time projections and more!
